DETAILED ACTION

The Amendment filed on 21 July 2003 has been acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

- 1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:
  - The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
- 2. Claims 1, 2 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 1 recites the step of "if the print content is not assigned the priority level, printing the print content using a normal print mode." However, claim 2 further recites "each section of the print content is assigned a priority level." Obviously, claim 2 is contradictory to claim 1. Furthermore, claim 4 recites the step of "printing a second section of print content that comprises a high level of priority by printing the second section in the normal mode." Again, claim 4 is contradicting claim 1 for the reason is that the high level of priority section is printed in the normal mode while the print content which is NOT assigned the priority level is printed in this mode. Therefore, applicant needs to further define the claim language somehow to make each of these claims relating to each other.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
  - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-9, 11-17 and 19-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schwarz, Jr. (US 6,476,927 B1) in view of Mantell (US 6,189,993 B1).

Schwarz, Jr. discloses in Figures 1, 8 and 9 a method for rationing ink in a printer (20), the printer (20) having an ink supply (not shown) for printing content on print media, a printing device, a controller (15) for controlling the printing device, the method comprising the steps of: receiving a print job (17) comprising print content; parsing (column 4, lines 54-55) the print content prior to printing; sending the content to the printer(20); coupling the printer (20) to a computer (12, 14); parsing (column 4, lines 54-55) is performed by the computer (12, 14);

Schwarz, Jr. discloses the claimed invention except for reciting the print content is assigned different levels of priority and different print modes are associated with the priority levels; a low priority level is in grayscale and a high level of priority is in the normal print mode.

Mantell teaches in Figures 4 and 5 that the print content is assigned different levels of priority (Figure 4) and different print modes (92) are associated with the priority levels (Figure 4); a low priority level is in grayscale (94) and a high level of priority is in the normal print mode (96).

It would have been further obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have the print content assigned different levels of priority and different print modes are associated with the priority levels; a low priority level is in grayscale and a high level of priority is in the normal print mode, as taught by Mantell, for the purpose of printing images having different grayscales.

5. Claims 10 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schwarz, Jr. (US 6,476,927 B1) in view of Mantell (US 6,189,993 B1) as applied to claims 1-9, 11-17 and 19-23 above, and further in view of Grune et al (US 6,209,995 B1).

Schwarz, Jr. discloses the claimed invention except for reciting the ink supply comprises a laser printer toner supply.

Grune et al teaches the ink supply comprises a laser printer toner supply (column 1, lines 15-18).

It would have been further obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include the a laser printer toner supply, as taught by Grune e al, for the purpose of forming a thermosetting image as noted in column 1 lines 15-16 of Grune et al.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-23 have been considered but are most in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
